Just when things look blissful for Nelson and Kerry, tragedy strikes

Nelson has never been happier. Having finally found love with the beautiful Kerry, the popular All Saints nursing unit manager, who has endured so much turmoil in his life, this week prepares for his wedding.

But TV WEEK can reveal that in a shock development, the trip to the altar is anything but smooth for Nelson (Paul Tassone) and Kerry (Jaime Mears). In fact, their wedding day will be marred by tragedy. And let's just say that, by the end of the day, everyone in the All Saints emergency ward will realise just how fragile life can be.

When the gripping episode begins, Nelson and Kerry are enjoying a celebratory drink at Coogers with their co-workers. Unable to keep their hands off each other, it's clear that there's no sign of pre-wedding cold feet for either of them.

"Nelson and Kerry really did connect from the beginning," Paul says. "I think it's fantastic that this has happened for him.

"It's been great to see Nelson opening up, and not just to Kerry. It's also made him open up to everyone else he works with. He's become more whole."

The next day, it looks as though Nelson's nerves may get the better of him as he begins getting ready for the ceremony.

Thankfully, his colleague, Frank (John Howard), is by his side all the way, having accepted the role of Nelson's best man.

"I think when it comes down to it, Frank is probably the closest guy to Nelson," Paul says.

"Even though there's a lot of banter that goes on between them, he's Nelson's closest friend. There's a grudging admiration between them. It's that thing where guys are always sparring to see who's top dog."

When Nelson arrives at the church, Cate (Alex Davies) and Jessica (Natalie Saleeba) – frocked up and looking fabulous – are already there, along with Dan (Mark Priestley). As the minutes pass, it seems that Kerry must be planning on making a "fashionably late" arrival.

Back at the hospital, a massive chemical explosion in a nearby paint factory has filled the ED with casualties.

Meanwhile, Nelson understandably becomes increasingly anxious as time ticks by and the bride hasn't arrived. What could have happened to Kerry?

GOING TO THE CHAPEL

We've heard of some rather unusual locations for TV weddings, but this one really takes the prize!

Paul Tassone reveals that the ceremony was actually filmed at a cemetery chapel.

"But it won't look like a cemetery," he insists. "There'll be no gravestones in the shots. It's just an absolutely beautiful little chapel."

Nelson and Frank await the bride's arrival.
