While Jack tries to repair his relationship with Frank, the last person he expects to see turns up – Deanna!

Making amends

Will Frank (right) forgive Jack for believing Deanna's word against his?

While his staff are trying to protect Frank from any added stress, that's a tough call in the ED – especially with Frank's domineering ex-wife, hospital director of medicine Alison Newell (Elizabeth Alexander), very much making her presence felt!

And, of course, Frank (John Howard) can't help but involve himself in the various cases that present themselves during the course of the day. What's more, Vincent (Chris Gabardi), Cate (Alex Davies) and Jack (Wil Traval) have a particularly gruesome one to contend with.

Meanwhile, now that Deanna (Sibylla Budd) has handed in her resignation, her ex-lover, Jack, gathers his courage and faces up to Frank about her. As fans will know, Jack was caught in the middle when Deanna lodged a false sexual harassment case against Frank. Is Frank now harbouring a grudge against Jack?

"Jack has realised he's burnt some bridges by sticking by Deanna's side and he's trying to repair those now," reveals Wil.

"Whether Frank is willing to accept that or not is entirely up to Frank – there's nothing Jack can do about that."

Wil admits that Jack did doubt Frank for a brief moment.

"What he doubted was whether Frank had acted appropriately towards Deanna, not that he might have sexually harassed her," he explains. "Jack felt that Frank might have given Deanna the wrong impression."

"Of course, Jack now wishes he'd never got involved with Deanna. The experience has given him a stronger focus toward his work."

But Jack is in for a major shock – Deanna is about to pay him one final visit... in the middle of the ED!

UNDER SUSPICION

The ED receives news this week that Colin – who murdered Nelson's fiancée, Kerry, on their wedding day – has died while in rehab.

Soon after, Nelson (Paul Tassone, below) is informally questioned by police, and it's clear he's under suspicion of foul play. Indeed, viewers will recall that an enraged Nelson went to Colin's house shortly after Kerry's (Jaime Mears) death and beat him, before calling an ambulance.

But what did Colin (Jacob Allan) write, shortly before his death, in a letter to Nelson? Let's just say its contents could change Nelson's life forever!
